SHOP CRAFTS WILL PROBE ACTS OF VIOLENCE Prospects Less Bright For Rail Settlement

DECIDED CHANGE OF OPINION NECESSARY TO BRING PEACE IS BELIEF IN GOTHAM

Executives May Balk Again On the Seniority Rights
Issue

APPARENTLY WILLING TO STAND PAT STILL

John G. Walker, Representing the Executives, Is Decidedly Pessimistic Today

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Unless there is a decided change of opinion in the meantime, there will be no settlement of the railroad shopmen's strike at tomorrow's conference of railroad executives of the country here.

This was agreed to by the spokesmen for both the executives and the men today.

Following a series of conferences among executives arriving in advance for the conference, John G. Walker, executive secretary of the bureau of information of eastern railroads, authorized the announcement that the company heads apparently were determined to "stand pat" on their refusal to restore strikers returning to work their full seniority rights.

M. Walber added that he did not look for any settlement as a result of tomorrow's meeting.

Mitchell Home Is Destroyed By Fire

HARTSELLE, August 22.—The well apportioned home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mitchell was destroyed by fire between eleven and twelve o'clock Monday morning. A fire had just been made in the cook stove, when it was discovered that the building was on fire. Every effort was made by the bucket brigade to stay the flames, which under the presence of a hot sun and some wind made the fight very ineffective. Some of the household effects were saved, but much of them were lost, among them being some old relics which were highly prized. The fire fighters were able to keep the flames confined to the home, and no other dwellings in that vicinity were damaged. The home had just been remodeled during the last few years, and was one of the best in the town.

Road's Officials Substitute For The Train Crews

(By Associated Press.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 22.—With road officials substituting for striking engineers and firemen, who refused to work in and out of Spencer while state troops are on guard duty at the Southern Railway shops, the virtual tie up in passenger service began clearing up. Freight trains however are not being moved.

PYTHIANISM ENJOYS RED LETTER DAY AT HERMIONE LODGE AS DISTRICT MEET HELD

Members of Order From All
Over the District Attend
Convention

ADDRESS OF WELCOME
GIVEN BY J. R. DANIEL

Response Made to Greeting By Fred Johnson, of Florence

Another red letter day for Pythianism was made Monday, by the assembling of the membership of the Tennessee Valley for the session of the First District Pythian convention at Hermione hall Monday afternoon at 3 p. m. About 50 delegates were in attendance, representing most of the lodges of the district. After the convention assembled, John Hay, of Huntsville, was called to the chair and presided throughout the entire business session.

The lodge was opened by Chancellor Commander W. W. Benson.

An address of welcome delivered by J. R. Daniel, of Hermione lodge, was bubbling over with good fellowship, and did much toward making the visiting delegates feel at home, and cemented the fraternal ties which exist among members of the order in a most positive way.

The response was made by Fred Johnson, of Florence, who reciprocated the warm welcome extended the visitors, and was in itself a happy event.

The first session of the convention assembled promptly at 3 p. m. and continued until 5 p. m. Adjournment was then taken for the dinner which was served the membership and their visitors, in the dining room adjoining the hall at 7 p. m. The repast, which was liberal in the broadest sense, was in the nature of a chicken dinner, with other accessories to match this noted dish of the Southland, which all have learned to love with a devotion akin to that of Damon and Pythians.

After the dinner, all repaired back to the lodge hall where the further business of the convention was dispensed with. A feature of the convention was the initiation of a candidate in the rank of Esquire, which was put on and carried out in the most amplified form. Grand keeper of Records and Seals Aldridge, presided with much dignity and ability during the progress of this work.

During the business session it developed from the splendid reports brought from the visiting delegates from over the district, that Pythianism was keeping strides with the on-ward march of fraternalism in the district, and pledges of still further loyal support on the part of its membership were renewed, by all who participated in the work of the convention.

DECATUR CREAMERY FURNISHES MARKET FOR DAIRY PRODUCT OF VALLEY FARMER

COWS TODAY ARE LIVING
ON THE FAT OF THE LAND

Local Creamery First Operated
In State North of Selma

(J. E. Blair.)

The cow leads. Automobiles may ride us past the noble horse; but the cow shall remain in the vanguard of civilization. "Resolved that the cow is more useful than the horse," of old time, has occasionally been decided in favor of the negative; but never against. The affirmative side wins now and shall forevermore.

Affectionate, kind, gentle, and absolutely indispensable the cow is finally coming into her very own. Time was when the cow was an outcast. She had to forage for her living in rail fence corners; on dangerous mountain sides and amid the quick sands of the swamps. Today she lives on the "fat of the land"; and she is curried and rubbed as carefully as a race horse. Today she is "Lady Cow," and why not? The cow is the foster mother of our race! Whereas the cow used to be milked in cold and rain and often in filth, now she is warmly housed as she feeds gives up her precious life sustaining food to the strains of sweet music.

But Science Had To Help

But the milk of the cow containing its rich butter fat, could never have made its maker so valuable and respected unless the hand of modern science had been held out to the cow; Unless modern inventions and modern business methods had been employed, cows would have remained undernourished and their dairy products would never have been so distributed as furnish a market for the farmer. Nor would the abundance of butter and cream have ever reached the eaters of the land as is now the case.

The children of Israel had to gather their manna (Ex. xv-15) daily, the children of America can milk their cow today, send the butter fat to the Decatur Ice Cream and Creamery company the next day, and every two weeks get a perfectly good check in payment thereof. It is just as possible to have an oil well, without digging the well, as it is to have prosperity without good outlets for the products of the farm.

Those who do not appreciate the efforts of modern business to furnish outlets and markets, are as senseless as those who could not see the value of suitable drain ways where an over supply of rain fell, or who did not believe in those earth drain ways called rivers. Trade, modern manufacture and commerce are essential in getting farm products turned into money, absolutely.

The Decatur Creamery was the first to be operated north of Selma in this state. It is the largest one north of Selma. It has a branch in Huntsville, and it furnishes that city and South Pittsburg, Tenn., with their entire supply of "sweet butter" fat and convertible cream. For a radius of 75 miles this concern serves the dairy trade. Farmers 20 miles from Cullman send their butter fat by parcel post, via Cullman, on to Decatur, and then have their empty receptacles returned by the postman right at their front doors. No wonder the "interests" kicked up such opposition to the "parcel post" plan of the government. Several thousand dollars are "made" by the farmers of this district every ten days owing to the activities of the Decatur Creamery. Why? Because an outlet is being found for their surplus dairy products.

ROPER REPORTS ON PLACES HE VISITED DURING PAST WEEK

The following official statement was issued today by H. C. Hutchinson, chairman of the press committee of the federated crafts.

After being in session one hour and twenty minutes, the exact time spent in yesterday's meeting, the rail strikers closed this morning with prayer by Frank Leis.

As usual a motion to adjourn preceded the prayer and before this motion prevailed a number made brief reports concerning their experiences since yesterday's meeting. S. E. Roper was present and made an address dwelling on conditions at points he visited on the L. and N. system last week. According to the announcement of Frank Lewis, Lodge No. 159 of Odd Fellows made a donation since yesterday as had a number of individuals.

Mr. Lewis reported that no new cases of sickness had been brought to the attention of the Relief Committee. A large volume of reports were read by the publicity committee, including the official report of the Secretary of the system federation, as sent out from Louisville. The opening prayer was offered by S. E. Roper at the request of Chaplain L. E. Toon. It was stated that Reverend R. F. Stuckey, pastor of the First Baptist church of Albany, will conduct the devotional for the strikers on Wednesday morning.

Troops Removed At Spencer Shops

SALISBURY, N. C., Aug. 22. Troops were ordered removed from the Southern railway shops at Spencer today, after the transportation men had voted to remain out as long as the soldiers were on duty.

Members of the trainmen's organizations and clerks were reported returning to work at noon. The removal of the troops was ordered by Col. Scott at the request of General Superintendent Simpson, of the Southern, following a conference with representatives of the employees.

LABOR ASKS EARLY VOTE ON FORD'S BID FOR SHOALS PLANT AS HOUSE GATHERS

Interesting Meeting Held Last Night By Central Labor
Union

GOMPERS LETTER READ
AT LOCAL CONFERENCE

Federation Chief Recalls Action Taken By the National Convention

One of the most interesting questions to come before a meeting of the Central Labor Union of Albany and Decatur, held last night at Carmen's Hall, was the matter of renewed attempts to secure a vote on the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals, by congress now in session in Washington.

A motion was put and carried instructing that the senators and members of congress from Alabama be memorialized at this time on the subject and that a copy of the following letter of Samuel Gompers, be transmitted to them; as addressed to Lewis Bowen, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, a copy of which was read at the meeting last night:

Washington, D. C.
August 1, 1922.

My Dear Sir:
The Convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, in June of this year, adopted the following "resolve" with a number of preambles, one of which declares that the labor movement of the United States knows no North, no South, no East and no West, but wish the development of the great natural resources of the nation wherever located:

"RESOLVED, That this, the Forty-second annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, sides with the farmers in their controversy as to the acceptance of the Ford bid and that this convention instruct its executive council to use all means in its power to secure favorable action on the final offer of Mr. Ford to lease Muscle Shoals, and in view of the deterioration of the property at Muscle Shoals and the immediate and very urgent need of the farmers for more fertilizer, that the executive council use all haste possible in bringing pressure to bear on the congress of the United States to secure favorable action at the present session, on the Ford contract to develop Muscle Shoals."

In transmitting the above resolve to you for your consideration, we direct your attention to the votes of the House taken on June the 24th, on the amendments, as offered by Representatives James and Huddleston, indicating a desire on the part of a majority of the House that an early opportunity should be given for action upon Mr. Ford's offer.

We, therefore, in the interests of all the citizens of our country, urge that the proposition be brought before the House at the end of the recess, and the House given an opportunity to take action upon this important measure.

Yours very truly,

(Signed)

SAM L. GOMPERS,

President A. F. of L.

During the discussion of the present railroad strike, a representative of the local carpenter's union, offered a resolution, which was passed reaffirming the stand taken by the Central Labor Union in favor of the railroad shopmen and their associates now on strike throughout the country.

HOPEFUL OF PEACE BUT PREPARING FOR TROUBLE, ATTITUDE OF ADMINISTRATION

Cabinet Again Discusses Rail and Coal Strikes At Today's Meeting

OPPOSITION IN EAST
TO PEACE NO SURPRISE

Army Personnel Checked To Discover Those With Railroad Experience

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—"Hopeful for peace, but preparing for trouble,"

This summed up the attitude of the administration in the railroad strike today as President Harding met with his cabinet for another round table discussion of the situation and the policies the government may be compelled to put into effect, if tomorrow's joint conference between railway executives and strike leaders fails to establish the desired peace in the transportation industry.

The war-like utterances of the eastern executives, notably L. F. Loe and W. W. Atterbury did not materially far the optimism that exists in government circles, that a basis of adjustment will be established this week.

It has been expected all along, a cabinet officer said, that the eastern executives would oppose settlement of the strike on any but their own terms and consequently the "no surrender" attitude of the "die hards" indicated little change in the situation.

"The problem is national, not sectional," said an administration official, "and it is to be hoped it will be worked out along national lines. The conditions that prevail in the east, perhaps, do not prevail in the west or south. It should be remembered, for one thing, that the east cannot move the west's gigantic crop."

Secretaries Davis and Hoover took to today's cabinet meeting reports showing steady betterment in the coal situation. Already bituminous production is picking up as a result of the Cleveland agreement and reports from government observers indicate an anthracite agreement is at hand.

One of the preparedness measures invoked by the government is a re-checking of the army personnel records to ascertain how many soldiers have had railroad experience. This check is said to have revealed that a considerable number of soldiers would be not unfamiliar with railroading, should an acute transportation emergency arise.

While it is realized that this step would be a minor one, in the face of any transportation crisis, it is, nevertheless, indicative of the steps being taken by government departments to prepare for any eventualities in carrying out President Harding's pledge to "use every power possessed by the government" to keep transportation open.

JEWELL ORDERS ALL ORGANIZATION UNITS TO SELECT PROBERS TO AID AUTHORITIES

Vigilance Committees Will Be Named To Cooperate With Officials

JEWELL IS TIRED OF ACCUSATIONS AS MADE

Doesn't Believe Craftsmen
Guilty of Many of Acts of Violence

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Striking shop craft unions all over the country today were ordered to form "vigilance committees" to aid local authorities in placing responsibilities for train wrecks and damage to railway properties.

Aroused by repeated charges of railroad officials that strikers have been at the root of recent wrecks and bombing outrages, Bert M. Jewell, strike leader, today issued orders that the circumstances surrounding every such occurrence be investigated by a union official.

"I am sick and tired of having the strikers blamed for every wreck and fake bombing that comes along," Jewell said. "Take the blowing up of the water main in the Southern railway shops at Spencer, N. C., for instance. That main runs, unguarded, through five or six miles of open country. The shops are heavily guarded and lo and behold, when the blow up came, it was 75 yards inside the yard fence."

"A funny thing about these explosions is that they make a lot of noise and don't do any damage to speak of. At Huntsington, West Va., the machine shops have been dynamited three times, without any one getting hurt or any serious damage being done. It doesn't seem natural."

Grand Jury Has 30 More True Bills

There were no cases tried in the criminal division of the circuit court Monday for various legal reasons, and court adjourned for the day shortly after the assembling hour of 8:30 o'clock. Court was convened at 8:30 Tuesday morning when the docket was sounded for the day, and adjourned at 8:45 o'clock to await the arrival of the morning accommodation, as parties to suits pending had been excused until that hour.

The grand jury made another report Monday in addition to the other reports made during the past week, this time reporting as having found 30 true bills. It was learned that a large majority of the bills found have been for forgery, burglary and grand larceny. The grand jury has sent no subpoenas out returnable later than today, and it is quite probable this inquisitorial body will adjourn with the labors of today.

Cotton Matures Early In Morgan

Under the spell of the hot dry weather which has abounded in the Tennessee Valley for the past several weeks, cotton has matured in a very remarkable quick manner, and the staple can now be seen in the fields thick enough to make good picking. Some seed cotton was offered for sale last Saturday, which was readily bought at a good price. In a very few days there will be a steady flow to the gins and markets of the country.

Te onward march of the price of cotton upward for the past several weeks is another good feature, and it looks as if the cotton farmer of this country will again have an inning in his favor.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE
OF HENRY FORD'S BID
FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

MILLION BEGGARS

There are estimated to be 1,000,000 homeless men in the United States, of whom about 40,000 are in New York. This group is not to be confused with unemployed workers. It is recruited from the most part from seasonal workers and those who are misfits. A considerable proportion of this group are potential vagrants and beggars, even criminals.

It is not hard for a man to sustain himself in comfort in most parts of the United States by begging. The opportunities are especially attractive in cities and this floating population gravitates toward the centers of population. In New York these men in large numbers acquire what is known as the lodging house habit. There is a constant inflow and outflow as the demand for work increases or decreases, but there is always a permanent population of this kind to fill the cheap lodging houses and the park benches.

With no home ties or responsibilities it is easy to acquire careless habits and lose the will to work. An odd job of a few minutes begging usually brings in enough money to pay for lodging and food and the ambition to work vanishes. The possibilities of begging in New York are surprising. With mistaken kindness, New Yorkers unwittingly contribute to the mendicant's downfall. It is commonly said by those familiar with these beggars does a dollar's worth of harm.

The prevalence of begging seems to increase slightly with the size of cities. Among those of less than 30,000 comparatively freedom from beggars is higher than in larger cities. The enforcement of laws against begging and peddling as a rule proves more satisfactory in the smaller cities. —From the New York Times.

Next Monday will see the return of many of the bright faced young men and women, boys and girls, to the educational institutions of our country. Next Monday, the recreation days will be behind them for a period, and they must face and accomplish with the more serious aspects of their young lives. They now face a more serious duty; the duty of preparing themselves for the duties of active American citizenship when this responsibility comes to them on the wings of the years, and whether or not they will be in position to take up and carry on, depends in a large measure, upon how they spend the time embraced in the months they spend in the school room each year.

Many have had no recreation; they were compelled to work through the vacation period, in order to be prepared to again enter the halls of learning, there to further pursue the things which will fit them for the duties of life. Many did this from choice; many were forced to do so because of the hand of fate. This act upon their part further emphasizes the fact that they are determined to pursue, and attain the coveted end, and these can be counted upon to carry on in either storm or calm. At any rate, in just a few years the history of this great Republic will be written, written from the composite acts of their lives as they live them day by day. We believe in them; believe that they will be enabled to take up the duties where they are laid down by the leaders of the present, and continue to build upon and add to the splendid superstructure which exists today.

When the honey is in the comb, is a happy time for those who happen to possess a hive or hives of bees. All through the spring and summer months these indefatigable little workers are busy from early morning to late in the afternoon, storing up the sweet pollen of flowers, and over the clover fields of the country they are always busy.

The habits of the bee has only been partially understood even by those who have kept them for years. This is true, because something new is learned of them each season by the careful watcher. One thing has been learned, this much being agreed upon by every one who has to do with them, and that is, they are very industrious. It is said that during the year, the bee wears his wings out flying across the fields of the country where they get their honey. In this respect they are entitled to the greatest respect, and furnish a lesson in industry which would do well to be copied, at least in part by every worker.

However much the enemies of Henry Ford would like for his offer to be forgotten, and numbered with the things of the past, they are constantly being disappointed. The matter promises to be a very live subject at an early date. The more it appears to be trailing, the larger it becomes, and an able exponent of all its provisions has it in hand and will present again to congress in a most convincing way. Perhaps enough of the elections are now out of the way, that the matter can now have the attention of the national law makers which it deserves. Senator Capper of Kansas, has been entrusted with the duty of pressing the demands on congress for a speedy action. The waste and deterioration goes merrily on, while delay, occasioned by much politics is allowed to have first consideration. The words of Henry Ford when he said: "Remember the fight has just begun for Muscle Shoals property to be developed in the interest of all the people," will become historic words, when the history of this gigantic water power becomes the property of history. It is here and it is the peoples property. It will be developed in their interest—some time. But when?

Every camping party should carry an emergency outfit to their camping place. No one knows at what time a bite or sting by a poisonous insect or reptile may place the one in serious consequences. An emergency case may be secured for a small amount, and pays many times over for itself, if nothing else, in satisfaction, in knowing that the remedy is at hand.

Twenty years ago from now modern history will read better than it does today.

If only political slate would take the place of coal!

If we were as adept in recognizing people's rights as we are in seeing their wrongs the world would go along like a song.

The trouble about the "reign of law" is to get it to fall alike on the rich and the unrich.

The Commercial-Appeal has a long editorial warning against the dangers of the coming business boom. It could have said all that was said in a single line—"Good times will furnish a paradise for profiteers, if you don't watch out."

Decatur Creamery
Furnishes Market
For Dairy Product

Within this state, as far north as the city of Brotherly Love, and as far south as Florida, children and grown folks are getting fresh cool cream, that prior to the time modern transportation and modern creameries "took hold" had to wait for the women folks to milk old Bossy in some back cow lot—and then they got only blue milk streaked with dirt.

What Is Done at the Creamery.
Through the courtesy of J. W. Clopton the writer saw through the local creamery, and by his help got hold of the following facts as to what is done to and for the dairy products purchased at his plant. A stone platform located, as is the factory, on land owned by the company, receives the milk cans. The contents thereof are next weighed in a machine that registers down to the hundredth part of an ounce, and the workings of these scales are visible to the customer. The fat content is then found by a scientific test (the Babcock test) and the exact amount of fat found, is paid for. The milk is then submitted to the Pasteur test (named from the famous French inventor of this treatment). In a word this treatment is to subject the milk to 140 degrees F. 52 degrees lower than boiling point, and for thirty minutes. (It would not do to heat the milk to boiling as the taste would be changed too much). The Pasteurized milk is then put into a gigantic revolving, electrically driven churn, that has a capacity of 1000 pounds of butter at one churning. (Grand mother thought she did well to get a "pound at a churning.") After the butter does the same thing it used to do in the old hand churn namely "gethers" it is removed to cooling bins, later cut into pound packages. There are two kinds of butter sent out by Mr. Clopton, first "salt-butter," to be consumed at meals—and second "sweet-butter," that is sent all over the country and is re-convertable into cream and then frozen into soda-fountain ice cream. As to the by-products from butter-making they are valuable as can easily be imagined.

Making Ice Cream.
In order to strike terror once again into the would be resurrectors of Jonathan Barleycorn, deceased, let it be said if he should become an unwelcome visitor on this planet, once again, he should be arrested for vagrancy for King Ice Cream has his old job of heartening and pleasing the multitude. In a word what was whiskey's loss was Ice Cream's gain. Exactly what has appeared in this newspaper lately about ammonia being the active agent in making ice at the local ice plant, applies to the freezing of cream into ice cream at the Decatur Creamery. With this exception, Mr. Clopton makes air very cold around his ice cream to be, while Mr. Jones makes brine water so cold it will freeze soft water. Mr. Clopton has the same kind of arrangement for reusing his ammonia as the ice factory employs. Ice cream is superior to whiskey in every respect, one of which is that it is made by a government standard, so as to furnish a "balanced ration" for every freezer full sent out. The freezers have "liners," that are poreless—that is, none of the tin of the freezers can get to the cream within. This is done to preclude the possibility of what is known as zinc poisoning, who ever heard of a whiskey maker trying to keep it from poisoning his customers?

Tired Business Man
Be at "Y" Tonight

Secretary Randolph of the local Y. M. C. A. has arranged to pull the tired business man through the summer. How? Ah! a nice cool place where summer breezes are gently wafted and the night air is "nil" of mosquitoes. No dear reader, no, precisely an altogether different proposition. The tired business man is asked to come to the "Y" tonight at 7 o'clock and be prepared to perspire. The secretary is going to put his pupils through Walter Camp's Daily Dozen and it's not going to be such hard work either. The first two weeks are the hardest and then you will begin to feel like a new man. After the application of the famous mentor's "nature tonic" you may get into the cold showers and the pool is wide open for the use of those who work hard to forget their worries.

Remember the place and be on time and bring your oldest clothes.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That.—Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice.—MRS. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y."

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner.

That's the truth of the matter: If you are suffering from any of the troubles women have, you ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.
